Leyla Jha

Who?

Hemmant Jha is my father. He is 45 years old, and is from India. He went to graduate school at Yale, and is an architect. He works in industrial design at an Indian conglomerate.

What?

My dad was brought to an Indian conglomerate called Godrej, that was in need of better designs for their products. They make furniture, appliances, satellites, and buildings.

When?

Hemmant started working at Godrej in 2014, when I was in 4th grade. He has been working at Godrej for about 4 years. He helped them make a new type of refrigerator and he is currently helping them open a furniture store.

Where?

Godrej is located in Mumbai, India. The workers at Godrej eat lunch and work at “The Hubble.” They have all types of Indian food, as well as dessert and a bar.

Why?

My dad is helping Godrej go international and is helping them sell more products to a larger Indian population.

Godrej's first and most famous product they've made is a lock that a lot of people still use for important storage cases.

How?

My dad is now CDO (Chief Design Officer) at Godrej. He has accomplished this by bringing the design element into everything they make.

Thank You!
